Hunting Safaris

Caprivi is always beautiful, and Dawid Muller's camp is great. However, as a long-gone buffalo addict, what really impressed me was the quality of the buffalo I saw, and also the quality of the hunt, stalking closer than I would have thought possible in such seemingly open country. I was also impressed by the numbers and variety of plains game...and in Caprivi, of course, you're going to see a lot of elephants!

Daggaboy Hunting Safaris - Namibia

Owned and operated by Dawid Muller, a well known Namibian Professional Hunter who has been active in the hunting industry for more than 30 years.

Daggaboy Hunting Safaris offer dangerous as well as plains game hunting opportunities on their exclusively owned hunting areas in Namibia.

Hunts for dangerous game are conducted on their exclusively operated conservancy in the Caprivi region, bordering the Mamil National Park in the south and the Mdumu National Park on the northern side, whereas hunts for plains game takes place in an open (no high fences) area of over 40 000ha in the Khomas Hochland area in central Namibia.

The plains game hunting area being only 60km south-west of Windhoek, the capital of Namibia, means that you will arrive at your hunting destination within an hour's drive from the Hosea Kutako International Airport.

Accommodation is offered in five luxury double rooms in the hunter's wing next to the colonial style farmhouse on Dawid's ranch with en-suite bathrooms and wireless access to internet. Up in the Caprivi the accommodation is in en-suite bungalows or tents (client's choice) with running hot and cold water.

Excellent food, complementary beverages, alcoholic drinks as well as a daily laundry service is included in both areas.

Daggaboy Hunting Safaris endorses the practice of 11fair chase11 in hunting, so although 4x4 vehicles are used in the initial process of locating the game in both areas all hunts and possible follow-ups are thereafter done on foot.

Personal attention to every detail of your hunt and stay as well as a passion for what he does is what Dawid is known for, to which the very high percentage of return hunters to Daggaboy Hunting Safaris can be a testimony.
